PUBLIC LECTURE

Fabian Hörmann is an architect and musician. He studied architecture in Stuttgart and Las Palmas. After working in film, media and architecture he became an associate, member of the management and head of the design and competition department at the architecture firm EM2N. In 2022, he founded YR22 regenerative architecture + urbanism in Zurich. He is also member of the Architects Group Krokodil and the Activist Group Countdown 2030, is currently teaching at FHNW with the collective guest professorship of Countdown 2030 and as substitute professor with Frank Stasi he is leading the department of Climate-just and Ressource-efficient Architecture at HFT in Stuttgart. 2021 he joined the CAS ETH Regenerative Materials – Essentials and decided to extend the collaboration. He launched the multi-media project “The Real Deal – Post-Fossil Construction for Game Changers” to convince decision makers from real estate, finance and politics on different channels. He will explain to us the process and content of the book which was recently published with RUBY PRESS and ongoing and upcoming activities.
