

FUTURE FOOD

A SWISS RESEARCH INITIATIVE

Promoting talents and new ideas for food systems of the future

ETH Zurich and EPFL are highly committed to creating a strong network where industry, researchers and students create knowledge and innovative solutions to address future food system challenges.

The Future Food Initiative

- aims to expand research and education in food and nutrition sciences;
- brings together food system competences from academic and industrial research;
- fosters co-development and exchange of knowledge and ideas around future food topics;
- fosters co-learning for students, postdoctoral fellows and industry partners working on real-world projects.

Interested to join the initiative as a partner or to apply for a fellowship?

→ Learn more about the initiative at www.futurefoodtalents.org

→ Contact us at futurefood@ethz.ch