December 2021

First snowfall of the year has already come, and tiny lights draped over pine garlands are cropping up all over the place. Which means it's time for... *drum roll*... the CSNOW ice skating event! We hope that the circumstances will allow us to meet there.

Ice Skating at Dolder

- 📅 Monday, December 13, starting 17:00
- Dolder Ice Rink
- All female D-INFK students
- 🆓 Free admission (skate rental covered by participants)

On December 13, we will meet at Dolder to enjoy an evening of ice skating. So if you feel like channeling your inner Anna Shcherbakova, skating around and chatting, or just enjoying some Glühwein with friends, join us there at any time between 5 P.M. and 10.30 (which is the closing time).

Admission to the ice rink is free. Participants will cover their own skate rentals (8 CHF), so feel free to bring your own skates.

Voices of STEM Women: Tendü Yoğurtçu

- 📅 Thursday, December 16, at 15:00
- online

Google Student Developer Club Zurich is holding a talk series with female leaders. For the first talk, they have invited Tendü Yoğurtçu, Ph.D., the Chief Technology Officer (CTO) at Precisely.

Tendü is a dedicated advocate for STEM education for women and diversity. She is co-founder and co-chair for the Precisely Women in Technology program. She was recognized as CTO of the Year at the prestigious 2019 Women in IT Awards and as an Outstanding Executive in Technology for 2018 by Advancing Women in Technology (AWT).

At this event, Tendü is going to talk about data trends and their opportunities and challenges, with a focus on Big Data, Cloud, and AI/ML use cases. The event series "Voices of STEM Women" is held in collaboration with three women STEM associations at ETH Zurich, namely LIMES, CSNOW and Phimale.
