

FIM

Minicourse

Mark Rudelson

(University of Michigan)

Roman Vershynin

(University of Michigan)

Recent progress in non-asymptotic random matrix theory

Abstract:

Non-asymptotic random matrix theory strives to describe spectral characteristics of matrices of a large but fixed size valid with high probability. We will discuss new developments in this area stemming from the interaction of geometric, probabilistic, and Fourier-analytic methods.

April 28, May 7 and May 12, 2015

HG G 19.2, ETH Zürich, Rämistrasse 101

Tuesday

April 28, 15:15 - 17:00

Thursday

May 07, 13:15 - 15:00

Tuesday

May 12, 15:15 - 17:00

FIM - Institute for Mathematical Research

www.fim.math.ethz.ch/lectures