

Colloquium "Four Facets of Modern Statistics, and a Surprise!"
December 3, 2015 at ETH Zurich, Switzerland

Mathisca de Gunst

VU University Amsterdam

Statistics for networks with a view towards neuroscience

Over the past decade, the importance of statistical network modeling for many areas of science, the life sciences among them, has been recognized. As a result, the activities in statistical network research have rapidly increased. In my talk I will discuss some aspects of this development in relation to applications in neuroscience.