

MANAL BEL IMAM

Before reaching Davos as a PhD student in Immunology, I lived and studied in 3 different countries. I know the struggles of making new friends, speaking a different language, and adapting to a system everyone seems accustomed to. Pursuing a PhD brings a whole new set of obstacles, from feeling overwhelmed, to being afraid of the future, to keeping a healthy work-life balance. Even if we are all different and we tackle issues in different ways, we can all understand each other, and I will do my best in supporting you to overcome your challenges.
